Another tragedy took place over the weekend when a man walked into a Chicago yoga class and opened fire.\n

In discussing the deadly shooting at a local yoga class this weekend, I will avoid any speculation about the perpetrator’s mental state, his actions and the motivations driving his violent trauma.

Instead, I will take this opportunity to speak to the need to end the carnage that so frequently befalls us all on our streets every day.

Our lawmakers have had their chance to do something about this increasing level of violence, and it’s clear that they have failed us. That’s why I am declaring a State of Emergency, effective immediately.

I am calling for a full investigation into the recent surge of violence in our communities, and I am calling on the Illinois State Police to work closely with local law enforcement to bring those who are responsible to justice.

This is not a time for us to sit back and let this tragic event pass without action. We must act now to address the root causes of this violence and to begin to restore safety and security to our communities.

Let’s take action. Let’s end the violence.

As I mentioned earlier, I am calling for a full investigation into the recent surge of violence in our communities. This is a matter of life and death, and we must act decisively.

I am calling on all levels of government to work together to address this crisis. The Illinois State Police must work closely with local law enforcement to bring those who are responsible to justice.

We must also address the root causes of this violence. This is not simply a matter of responding to tragedies as they occur, but of taking a comprehensive approach to preventing violence and building safer communities.

Let’s take action. Let’s end the violence.
